

Ambria Haddad, DVM

ACCESS – Pasadena

Dr. Ambria Haddad grew up in California and earned her undergrad degree at Cal Poly Pomona before moving to the south for veterinary school at Louisiana State University.

While working in the field before going to veterinary school, she found her calling in emergency medicine specifically.

She completed a small animal rotating internship in Las Vegas and then continued to work there for a few years before returning to southern California.

When not working or trying to catch up on sleep between overnight shifts, Dr. Haddad enjoys watching sports and movies.

As a huge Dodgers fan, she's visited most of the MLB stadiums in the country to cheer on the Dodgers in person. She has two dogs (Will Truman and Carlton Banks) and two cats (Steve Buscemi and Gary Busey) that dominate most of her time when she's not working.
