

Cheslymar García, DVM, MS, DACVS-SA

Department of Surgery

ACCESS – South Bay

Cheslymar García earned her Doctor of Veterinary Medicine degree at Ross University School of Veterinary Medicine and spent her clinical year at the veterinary teaching hospital at Michigan State University.

After graduating in 2015, Dr. García pursued a Small Animal Rotating Internship at Virginia-Maryland College of Veterinary Medicine and remained in Blacksburg for her Small Animal Surgery Residency. She became a diplomate of the American College of Veterinary Surgeons in 2021.

During her residency, she also obtained a Master's in Biomedical and Veterinary Science. Her Master of Science thesis focused on the prevalence of asymptomatic bacteriuria in dogs with cranial cruciate disease while considering treatment and the significance of antibiotic resistance in veterinary medicine.

After completing her residency, she decided to continue her career on the west coast. She is excited to bring her skill set and compassion for animals to Southern California for surgical consultations and procedures.

Her surgical interests include a variety of soft tissue surgeries, orthopedics, and neurosurgeries. She has a special interest in many soft tissue procedures, specifically oncologic surgery, skin and reconstruction, and abdominal surgery.

During her free time, Dr. García enjoys traveling, painting, and spending time with her family, friends, and two Labrador retrievers, Heisman and Pelle.
