

Priscilla Marroquin, DVM

ACCESS – Los Angeles

Dr. Priscilla Marroquin grew up in North Hollywood. Her first pet growing up was her beloved bunny, Oreo. He is the one that sparked her love for animals and led her down the path of becoming a vet.

Her dream took her to UC Davis to obtain her B.S. in Animal Science with an emphasis in Livestock and Dairy. Following her undergraduate career, she worked as a veterinary assistant in Northern California for three years.

She then moved across the country to Wisconsin to attend a veterinary school. Dr. Marroquin graduated from the University of Wisconsin-Madison School of Veterinary Medicine and completed a year internship in small animal emergency medicine in Madison, WI.

Living in the Midwest taught her a lot - mainly that she hates winter and never wants to leave California again. After 12 long years of being away from Los Angeles, she is excited to return home and join ACCESS – Los Angeles.

In her free time, Dr. Marroquin likes hiking with her dog, Floyd, and lounging on the couch with her two kitties, Vincent Price and Autumn. Her hobbies include playing the ukulele, snowboarding, going to record stores, and exploring new restaurants with her partner.
